KEYNOTE SPEAKER

DR. KHAMA ENNIS

Khama Ennis, MD, MPH is passionate about the role of physician diversity in health equity and reducing disparities. She created Faces of Medicine, a documentary and storytelling project, to move the needle on representation in medicine. Her writing has appeared in the Washington Post and Parents Magazine. She has been an invited speaker on the subject of health equity and a guest on many podcasts. Dr. Ennis is a board certified Emergency Physician with over 20 years of clinical experience as well as training in acupuncture, lifestyle and integrative medicine. She is currently serving as the Assistant Medical Director at University Health Services at UMass Amherst while continuing the work of Faces of Medicine.
